To the Members of the Department of Public Safety, State of Georgia

Dear Friends:

Another year has passed, a year in which you, the members of the Department of Public Safety, once again distinguished yourselves as proud professionals who strive for, achieve and maintain the tradition of excellence your organization has consistently displayed in keeping the public safe in our state.

It is true the death rate per 100 million miles traveled rose one-tenth of one percent from 1979 to 1980, but the total number of traffic deaths in Georgia declined from 1979 to 1980, the first such decline from one year to the next in five years. This is a bottom-line figure that cannot be ignored.

This past year tested the skills of the department, whether it be in traffic enforcement or the quelling of prison disturbances, and all the members of the department handled themselves properly and skillfully. I congratulate all of you on a job well done, and I look forward to even better things in the future. The safety of Georgia residents and visitors to our state has never been in more capable hands.

Sincerely,

George Busbee

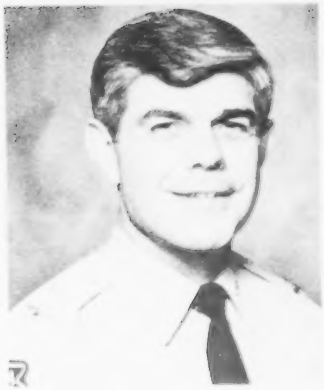
COLONEL HUGH HARDISON
COMMISSIONER



Governor George Busbee
Members of the Legislature
Citizens of Georgia

Please accept our 1980 calendar year Annual Report covering the activities of the Georgia Department of Public Safety.

Georgia's 1980 traffic safety record was another good one. Compared to 1979, traffic deaths declined by 1 percent from 1522 to 1503; but because of a 4 percent decline in travel the actual death rate rose by 2.8 percent.

Overall the traffic death picture continues to be encouraging principally because of the lower speed limit.

In 1980 the Georgia State Patrol conducted several new programs aimed at further enhancing enforcement efforts in our state. The use of plain cars is one program; and the use of aircraft and internal management improvements also helped in our safety efforts.

In 1981 we will continue to search for new methods of enforcing our traffic laws in an effort to further improve Georgia citizens' chances of survival on our highways. We are dedicated to this end.

Sincerely,

Hugh Hardison, Colonel

HIGHLIGHTS

Over the past four years, traffic death statistics in Georgia have stabilized following an increase in 1977. This leveling off, which has been contrary to national trends, indicates a settling of enforcement and the motoring public's adjustment to lower speeds. The continual rise in gasoline prices may have had some bearing on lower speeds as motorists strived for fuel efficiency.

The 1503 traffic deaths in 1980 were 1.2% lower than 1979, when 1522 deaths were recorded. Travel in 1980 was down 4 percent to 41 billion, 166 million miles reflecting a modest increase in the death rate of 2.8%. The accompanying chart in the front of this report shows - how deaths, miles traveled and the death rate per 100 million miles of travel has tended to level out in recent years.

Best estimates indicate that this leveling out may continue for the next few years. Even though availability of gasoline and lower or stable pump prices would indicate increased travel and more deaths, the economy of more fuel efficient vehicles would dictate lower speeds to greater safety contributions.

An indication of lower speeds shows in the number of State Patrol citations for the offense of speeding. In 1980 there were 194,580 speeding arrests compared to 235,572 in 1979, a decrease of 41,000 or —17%. Warnings for speeding were also lower. In answer to complaints of the public, arrests of truckers for speeding was 11,187.

Speed studies by the State DOT to determine compliance with the 55 mph speed limit law indicated that more than 62% of Georgia drivers drove at or near 55 mph. This survey, conducted on a quarterly basis, takes into account all types of roadway. Georgia's percentage of compliance is surpassed only by 4 other states in the nation.

The Georgia State Patrol added a new wrinkle to traffic enforcement in May 1980 when the first ever organized use of plain unmarked patrol vehicles was begun. "Operation Plain Jane" was first used in Atlanta as a pilot project and then spread statewide.

It basically called for the use of commissioned officers and MVI or Safety Education consultants' unmarked vehicles as spotter cars. These unmarked spotter vehicles would, in turn, radio to a marked unit which would make a case. If necessary both officers would appear in court. This operation, while impossible to run constantly, proved invaluable in concentrated patrol efforts during holidays or other times when a high visibility and high saturation patrol effort was needed. "Operation Plain Jane" has been particularly effective when combined with aircraft surveillance and enforcement under the "Bear in the Air" program.

"Bear in the Air" was inaugurated late in 1980 utilizing a $75,000 federal grant and called for use statewide of departmental aircraft as spotter planes for speeders, tailgaters, dangerous lane changers and other dangerous moving hazardous violators.

Aimed primarily at truckers, who had elicited considerable public complaints about reckless driving attitudes, "Bear in the Air" aimed straight at the heart of the problems to arrest truckers and inform their owners or bosses about the violation. This was accomplished with a form filled out on each arrest or warning and then sent through the Georgia Motor Trucking Association to owners or lessors. This program, to date has been very successful and has helped moderate the number of complaints about trucks violating the law.

As an aid to local enforcement agencies, the department took steps to standardize the Georgia Uniform Traffic citation, most commonly called a "traffic ticket". In February 1980 the form was redesigned to include space for the "warning" and drivers license bail bond receipt. Now instead of a ticket book, warning book and bail bond receipt book, only one book is necessary.

Georgia motorists got another improved benefit in 1980 when drivers licenses took a new format to prevent fraud or duplication of drivers licenses, a special watermark was added. The general visibility of the license was improved by deleting any cluttered background and special colored bars denoting drivers, minors or ID card were included.

In 1980 the compliment of personnel in the Georgia State Patrol was upped by 18 men bringing the total to its present 752 uniformed officers. The 18 additional personnel were dispatched to such high traffic and high population areas as Gainesville, Villa Rica, Brunswick and Toccoa. The increase in manpower was the first in 7 years.

In an effort to further professionalize members of the Department in 1980, numerous in-service training sessions were held in conjunction with the Georgia Police Academy. Additionally, several out of state courses were offered, such as the management course at Northwestern University.

Georgia Department of Public Safety

DRIVER SUPPORT DIVISION

The Driver Support Division administers the licensing of drivers throughout Georgia, as well as suspending and revoking licenses when justified by law. Accident reports are maintained by this section. The Safety Responsibility and No Fault Units suspend license and tags based on unsatisfied judgements and enforce the no fault insurance law.

PERSONNEL SERVICES

This section is responsible for employment of all Department of Public Safety personnel and all employee related records. Personnel coordinates with insurance companies and worker's compensation, and implements the departmental Affirmative Action Program.

Investigative Services and Complaints and Adjudication are under the Personnel Services. Investigative Services conducts pre-employment investigation of applicants for uniform positions and handles headquarters security. Complaints and Adjudication conducts inspections and investigations on the staff and line level and investigates complaints from the public.

PUBLIC RELATIONS SECTION

The Public Information Office coordinates activities between the Department and the various news media. This unit prepares department publications, as well as public relations and public service campaigns. The Graphics Department handles designs, layouts and printing of department material. The Photo Lab process all department pictures including accident photos.

FINANCIAL DIVISION

The Financial Division is responsible for inventory control issuance of racetrack, firearms sales and flashing light permits. This unit supervises and approves usage of federal funds. The departments central cashier is under the Financial Division.

FISCAL DIVISION

The Fiscal Division approves the funding of all expenditures based on budgetary appropriations and fund availability, provides for cash management and cash flow within the Department, for the payment of all obligations made by the Department, and for the coordination and preparation of the Department's budget request. This section also handles payroll, accounting and audits.

The Procurement and Supply Sections purchase, store and issue supplies for the Department and maintain a complete inventory of all property.

TRAINING

Training functions include all courses relating to law enforcement composed of departmental personnel, Merit System skill development and management courses, and specialized schools.

MANAGEMENT AND RESERACH

The purpose of this section is to provide internal operational analysis of existing units and sections to insure non-duplication and more effective and efficient operations and Data Processing coordination.

THE GEORGIA STATE PATROL

The Georgia State Patrol is the uniform division of the Department of Public Safety. The 752 troopers, 245 radio operators and 128 license examiners are under the command of the North and South Division Majors as well as the Colonel. Within the North and South Divisions are eight troops, each commanded by one captain and two assisting lieutenants.

These troops are strategically sectioned into 47 post territories, plus one Metro Traffic Enforcement Unit, Aviation Stations and and Executive Security Post at the Governor's Mansion. Post personnel include one sergeant, two corporals and a designated number of troopers, radio operators and license examiners. The number of personnel at each post depends on territory size, population and activity.

The uniform division also performs the field functions of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Unit and Safety Education.
